

Callen Family History

The Callens of Northern Allegheny and Southern Butler Counties of Pennsylvania

Compiled by Scott Anderson

Draft Copy, September 2008

Callen

The Callen coat of arms is officially documented in Burke's General Armory, as well as others. The original description of the shield is: "OR, ON A BEND GU, THREE MARTLETS AR.", when translated, the blazon also describes the original colors of the Callen arms as: "GOLD, A RED DIAGONAL BAND, THREE SILVER BIRDS WITHOUT FEET." Above the shield and helmet is the crest which is described as "half a red griffin attacking".

The Callen name translated, means "POWERFUL IN BATTLE".

Preface

The Callen name, although it is not a very common one, can be found throughout America. The name first appeared in American documents in the early 1700s in eastern Pennsylvania. Callens spread across the state, and across the country, and spellings of the name varied, including: Callan, Callin, Callon, Callens, Callons, among others. In some cases, the name was original to the spelling as it was in Ireland, but in many cases, the spelling was changed after arriving in America. Often, census records were misspelled, and it is even possible to find two households from the same family with different spellings.

The Callen families in America have been researched to great extents, and the most notable accounts of the Callen family history can be found in such records as The Callen Chronicles, compiled by Edna Callen McNellis in 1990, and The Callin Family History, written by G. W. Callin in 1911. Although it is likely that the Callens listed in this book are probably related to those in The Callen Chronicles and The Callin Family History, there is no documented proof of this connection. One of the lines of Callens that is covered extensively in these books is that of Patrick Callen. Patrick was the father of Hugh Callen, founder of Callensburg, a small town located in western Pennsylvania. Patrick lived in southwestern Armstrong County, close to the Callens written about here. Given that Patrick's birth year was in the late 1740s, and that he immigrated before 1769, there can be no direct connection to the Callen line written about here. It is plausible though, that Patrick Callen could be the great uncle of the Callens that immigrated in our line, who were William, Michael, and Catherine.

The First Generation

William M. Callen

The beginnings of our line of Callens in America start with William Callen, who immigrated to America in 1829. According to New York passenger and immigration lists, William Callon who was 19 years of age left Ireland from the port of Londonderry on the ship Asia, and arrived in New York on July 29th, 1829. William Callen was born in Ireland on December 10 in the year 1811; his parents were Patrick and Christina Callen. According to family legend, Patrick Callen was a Catholic priest.

Records show that two of William's siblings also immigrated to America, but there is a possibility of others. His brother Michael immigrated two years before William, arriving in New York on November 22, 1827. Michael's sister Catherine is also believed to have immigrated the year before Michael. Another sibling may have been Edward Callen, born about 1814, his wife was Elizabeth. They were both born in Ireland, and lived in Allegheny City, Edward may have died in the 1860s.

William is first found living in Allegheny City, Pennsylvania; now know as the North side of Pittsburgh. He is listed as William M. Callen, 20-30 years old. At some point in time after 1830, William moved to the area where Allegheny County and Butler County border one another, probably in Butler County. In about 1834 he married Sarah Pugh.

Sarah Pugh was born on November 4th, 1815 in Butler County, Pennsylvania. Sarah's parents were Michael and Elizabeth Pugh, who lived in Butler County. Michael Pugh had moved to Butler County from Monroe County with his father, Daniel, and two brothers, John and Peter. The family is mentioned in The History of Butler County – 1883, Chapter 26 Clinton Township: "Daniel Pugh was an early settler in the neighborhood now known as Pughtown, in the southwestern part of this township. He owned quite a large tract of land, on which his sons John, Michael and Peter lived. A coal bank has been operated by the Pughs for some years". It is believed that Daniel Pugh is one of the sons of Hugh Pugh and Helena Brink, of Chester County, Pennsylvania. The father of Hugh Pugh, who was also named Hugh, was born in Wales, and immigrated to America. Hugh Pugh Senior was accused of the murder of J. Hayes in 1715, and in 1718, he was hanged.

William Callen and Sarah Pugh had the following known children:

- 1.1 Elizabeth Callen, born December 25, 1835
- 1.2 Catherine Callen, born May 8, 1837
- 1.3 Edward Callen, born May 12, 1840
- 1.4 Michael Callen, born April 1844
- 1.5 William Callen, born about 1845
- 1.6 Hannah Callen, born about 1846
- 1.7 Sarah Callen, born about February 1850

William and Sarah lived in Buffalo Township, Butler County, in 1840. In 1843, according to the church's book, William Callen joined the Pleasant Unity Presbyterian Church. A note in the book also signifies that he was a former R.C., or Roman Catholic. In 1850, William, Sarah and their children are found living in Middlesex Township in Butler County.

William Callen died on November 17, 1951, and is buried in Bullcreek Cemetery, located near Millerstown, Pennsylvania. His headstone, although severely weathered, indicates his date of death, and that he was 39 years, 11 months and 7 days old. A cedar tree is engraved in his grave marker, and one is planted next to his grave, a traditional Irish symbol, meaning "strong faith". The grave is located in the old section of the Bullcreek Cemetery, at the perimeter of the graveyard. The grave, and others nearby, were only recently found, as they were overgrown and almost completely covered. Next to William's grave, are those of his son, Edward, and remnants two children's graves, probably his daughters, Hannah and Sarah.

An inventory of the personal property of William Callen of Middlesex Township, Butler County, was administered on December 6th, 1854. The belongings of William Callen included seven cows, three horses, five hogs, nineteen sheep, a windmill, various pieces of furniture, a looking glass, and two hundred and twenty nine dollars in various notes.

His wife, Sarah, remarried to George McWhinney in 1853. They lived on the McWhinney farm in 1860, which is located in Fawn Township, Allegheny County. George McWhinney fought in the Civil War, and died on November 17th, 1866. He is buried near William Callen in the Bullcreek Cemetery. In 1870, Sarah was living on the farm with her son Michael, and his wife and son. Sarah then remarried again to Alexander Simpson, who owned the farm next to Sarah's. They were living on the Simpson farm together in 1870, along with Sarah's sister, Catherine, and her grandson. Alexander Simpson died in 1883, and according to a Hemphill family descendant, who had the farm located next to the Simpson's, Sarah was allowed to live on the Simpson farm for the remainder of her life, and was to receive $25 per year. The son of Alexander Simpson, Robert, did not like the fact that she was allowed to stay on the farm.

Sarah wrote her last will and testament on August 14th, 1884, leaving $300 to her daughter, Caty Morn, and the remainder to her son, Michael. Sarah died on March 4th, 1885, and is buried in the Millerstown Cemetery, near her son, Michael. On her grave marker is engraved, Sarah A. Callen, wife of William Callen, died March 4, 1885, aged 69 years, 4 months.

Michael Callen

Michael Callen was born in Ireland, about 1806, making him the older brother of William.

Michael is believed to be the first sibling to come to America. According to New York passenger and immigration lists, Michael Callen, a carpenter, at 22 years of age left Ireland from the port of St. John, New Brunswick, on the ship Clothier, and arrived in New York on November 22nd, 1827.

Michael married Mary Weir, the daughter of Jane and John Weir, an immigrant from Ireland. Mary was born in June 1814, and lived in Butler County with her parents. Michael and Mary were probably married in the 1840s. They had no known children together. Mary died between 1900 and 1910.

Michael had one known child prior to marrying Mary, but may have had other children, his first wife is unknown. His daughter Sarah was born on July 4th, 1849 in Butler County. Sarah married Dennis Aloysius Duff about 1860, in Butler County. They had eight known children and lived in Butler County. Sarah died in January, 1901, in Butler County. According to census records, other children are found living with Michael, indicating that he may have had other children, including Mary born about 1835, and Michael born about 1833. There is also a Samuel Callen, born about 1848, living with Michael in 1860.

Michael lived in East Bethlehem in Washington County in 1840. By 1850, he was living in Middlesex Township of Butler County, with his family, and sister Catherine, not far from their brother William.

Michael purchased 75 acres of land in Clearfield Township, Butler County, on June 21st, 1852. The purchase price was $5.50 per acre.

In 1854 Michael Callen was naturalized as an American citizen.

On April 27, 1863, he wrote his will, designating Dennis Duff and Michael Callen, his nephew, as executors. He leaves the Orphan Asylum of Pittsburg $600, and his sister Catherine, a single woman, $200. The remainder is equally shared between his wife Mary, Michael Callen, and Sarah Duff.

Michael Callen died on May 26th, 1863, in Clearfield Township, Butler County.

Catherine Callen

Catherine Callen was born in Ireland, about 1808, making her the older sister of William. According to the 1800-1850 Philadelphia passenger and immigration lists, Catherine Callen, who was 20 years of age, left Ireland from the port of Londonderry on the ship Pelican, and arrived in Philadelphia on September 9th, 1828. She is found living with her brother Michael in 1840 and 1850, and is listed in Michael's will in 1863. She is listed as a single woman in Michael's will, so she had probably never married. The date and place of her death is unknown.

1.4 Michael Callen was born April, 1840 in Butler County, Pennsylvania. Michael was the only known son of William and Sarah to have children, and to carry on the family name.

On September 2, 1862, Michael enlisted to serve in the Civil War, being one of the first to join the newly formed Company D of the 14th Regiment of the Pennsylvania Cavalry Volunteers, 159th Infantry. Michael served under Captain Wakefield, but also served on detached duty under Colonel Shoonmaker. The Regiment was under General Philip Sheridan, famous for his campaign in the Shenandoah Valley. In the Wilderness Campaign during May of 1864, they destroyed communication lines and supplies of the Confederate Army, defeating General Stewart at Yellow Springs. The last battle of the Civil War in the Shenandoah Valley took place between Strasburg and Middletown. It marked the end of the Confederate power in the Valley, and its timing three weeks before the national elections unquestionably influenced the magnitude of President Lincoln's reelection. Medical records indicate that Michael was shot in the right leg. Michael was discharged on May 18th, 1865 at Washington, D.C..

Michael married Susan Heister on November 16th 1865 in Tarentum by William V. Evans, Esquire.

Susan was the daughter of Daniel Heister and Rebecca Mayer or Moyer. Susan was born on October 8th, 1838, in western Pennsylvania.

Susan's brother was a politician who was elected as a representative in Westmoreland County. In the History of Westmoreland County, written in 1903, the following was written on the Heister family:

The family of which Isaac Heister, of New Kensington, is a representative, was founded in this country by four brothers who emigrated from Baden, Germany, previous to the Revolutionary war, and settled near Sinking Spring, Berks County, Pennsylvania. They all bore arms in the patriot cause, and were members of the Lutheran church.

Daniel Heister, son of one of the four brothers mentioned above, was born about 1802, in Berks County, and abt 1835 moved to the western part of the state, where he engaged in farming during the remainder of his life. He was a member of the Lutheran church. His wife was Rebecca Mayer, of Berks county, and they had children: Reuben, deceased; Daniel, deceased; Isaac, mentioned hereafter; Rebecca, married Jacob Sarver; James, lives in East End, Pittsburg; Susanna, married Edward Callahan; and Samuel, a resident of Allegheny City, who served three years and a half in the Army of the Potomac. The death of Mr. Heister, the father, occurred in 1870.

The brothers mentioned indicate that Daniel was from the well known Hiester family of Eastern Pennsylvania. The Hiester brothers immigrated from Germany before the Revolutionary War, and later became active in politics. Several of their sons also were active in politics as well, and the Hiester family became known as the first political dynasty in America. Written in 1844, Rupp's History of Berks County stated the following:

The name of Hiester is so extensively connected with the general and State governments, that a brief sketch of the family may not be uninteresting.

Their remote ancestors were of Silesian origin. From that country they were distributed throughout Austria, Bavaria, Saxony, Switzerland and the countries bordering on the river Rhine. The immediate ancestors of the present race of that name in this country emigrated from Wittgenstein in Westphalia, and arrived in America in the early part of the 18th century. They consisted of three brothers, Daniel, John and Joseph, who took up their residence in the first place at Goshenhoppen, then in Philadelphia, now in Montgomery, county. Here Daniel at once purchased a farm which was somewhat improved. After exploring and becoming better acquainted with the country, they united in purchasing from the Proprietary government upward of two thousand acres of land in Bern Township, now Berks County. Here John and Joseph settled, while Daniel remained at the homestead. Having thus, with the characteristic prudence of those primitive days, first secured the means of supporting families, they next, in due time, formed matrimonial alliances with American women, and "set themselves down each under his own vine and fig tree," to enjoy, in the pursuit of agriculture, the fruits of their virtuous enterprise.

As they had been induced to leave their own native country by the vassalage of an oppressive government, which exacted, not only onerous taxes, but also a portion of the time and labor of its subjects, they naturally cherished in the minds of their descendants, a lofty spirit of freedom. Accordingly, when the Revolutionary war broke out, they were among the first to enroll themselves in the list of Associates. The efficient services of this class of citizen soldiers (which were organized by electing two Brigadier Generals at Lancaster on the 4th of July, 1776), afterward rendered in the campaigns of New Jersey, New York, Delaware, and the lower part of Pennsylvania, is a well known matter of history. Daniel (of Montgomery), John (of Chester), and Gabriel (of Berks), the three eldest sons of Daniel, entered the service as field officers, the two former with the rank of Colonel, and the latter with that of Major. William, the fourth and youngest son of Daniel, although also enrolled, did not, on account of his extreme youth and the infirmity of his aged parents, serve more than one campaign. [He was the great-grandfather of Isaac Hiester, Esq., whose sketch follows.]

Joseph Hiester, afterward Governor of Pennsylvania, the only son of John, entered the service as a captain in the "Flying Camp," and having been made a prisoner at the battle of Long Island, and confined on board the notorious Jersey Prison Ship, "New Jersey," he was, after his exchange promoted to the rank of Colonel. After the war, he and his two cousins, Daniel and John, were elected to the rank of Majors General of the militia in their respective districts. The popularity these men gained by their devotion to country, and the public spirit during the eventful struggles of the Revolutionary war, never forsook them. After the declaration of peace, they all enjoyed, by the suffrages of the people, a large share in the councils of the State, and general Government.

General Daniel Hiester was the first representative in Congress under the present constitution, from Berks County, of which he had in the meantime become a citizen. In 1796 he removed to Maryland, where he was again repeatedly elected to the same office, from the district composed of Washington, Frederick, and Allegheny counties, until the time of his decease, at Washington City, in the Session of 1801-02.

Joseph Hiester was elected a member of the convention which met in Philadelphia, in November, 1787, to consider and ratify, or reject, the first constitution of the United States; and in 1789, he was a member of the convention which formed the second constitution of this State. Under that constitution, he and Gabriel Hiester (who had also been a member of the convention which formed the first State constitution), were repeatedly elected to the Legislature, the latter continuing either in the Senate or House of Representatives, uninterruptedly, for nearly thirty years. General Joseph Hiester, after the removal of Daniel to Maryland, represented his district, composed in part of Berks County, in Congress, and about the same time General John Hiester was also chosen a member of the same body from Chester County. Both were re-elected for a series of years—the former until he resigned in 1820 and he was elected Governor of Pennsylvania, and the latter until he declined a re-election and retired to private life.

Michael and Susan lived in Fawn Township, Allegheny County, near Millerstown.

Michael Callen and Susan Heister had the following known children:

- 1.4.1 Edward Lincoln Callen, born August 15th, 1866 in Pennsylvania, married Mary Lou Taylor, died February 18th, 1948 in Allegheny County, Pennsylvania
- 1.4.2 Sarah Catherine Callen, born about 1872 in Pennsylvania, died in the 1880s.
- 1.4.3 James Grant Callen, born October 23rd, 1874 in Pennsylvania, married Emma May Griner, he died August 2nd, 1930 in Allegheny County, Pennsylvania
- 1.4.4 Susan Callen, born August 30th, 1879 in Pennsylvania, she married James Criner.
- 1.4.5 William John Callen, born September 12th, 1883 in Pennsylvania, he married Lucy Jane Sickles. William died on March 1, 1960.

Michael and Susan had three other children that died at a young age, their names are unknown.

Michael contracted heart disease in 1887, and died on May 20th, 1903. According to Susan's pension application, he did not leave a will. He is buried in the Millerstown cemetery, his grave marker states: Michael Callen, Father, Co. D 14th Reg. Pa. Cavalry.

Susan died of chronic brights disease at 77 yrs 7 mo 1 day, she was buried in Millerstown cemetery on 11 May 1916, her grave marker can not be found.

1.5 William Callen was born about 1845 in Butler County, Pennsylvania. In 1860, census records indicate that may have lived with Edward and Elizabeth Callen in Allegheny City. The 1870 census indicates that he may have lived in Franklin, Westmoreland County. No record of him has been found after 1870, and it is unsure if he ever married or had children.

1.6 Hannah Callen was born about 1846 in Butler County, Pennsylvania. Hannah died at a young age, and is believed to be buried near her father in Bullcreek cemetery.

1.7 Sarah Callen was born about 1850 in Butler County, Pennsylvania. Sarah died at a young age, and is believed to be buried near her father in Bullcreek cemetery.

Third Generation – Children of Michael and Susan Callen

1.4.1 Edward Lincoln Callen was born in Fawn Township, Allegheny County on August 15th, 1866. Edward married Mary Lou “Lulu” Taylor on November 24th, 1887 in Tarentum by W. Calpass, Justice of the Peace. At the time of his marriage, Edward was a teacher.

Edward Lincoln Callen 1866 - 1948

Mary Lou Taylor was born in Jefferson County, Ohio, on April 11th, 1864. Her parents were John Taylor and Margaret Maple. The Maple family has a long and well documented history in America, which is probably why several of the Callens were given the name. The first Maple to come to America was Benjamin Maple, born in 1663 in Ipswich, England. He came to America in 1684, as an indentured servant to John Smith for four years. Margaret’s great-grandfather, David, served in the Revolutionary War in Captain Aaron Longstreet's Company, 3rd Regiment of Middlesex County, New Jersey Militia. The first Taylor to come to America was Mary Lou’s great-grandfather, William Taylor, who was born in County Downe, Ireland in 1753. William served three terms in the Pennsylvania militia during the Revolutionary War from 1776 to 1781, and later served in the Continental Navy. A family legend is that the Taylor family is related to the dead president Zachary Taylor, but there has not been any proof to substantiate this.

Edward and Mary Lou purchased property from the John and Laura Walters in Millerstown in 1911. Edward and Mary Lou lived in Millerstown in Fawn Township, Allegheny County until at least 1930. He was a lamp man in the coalmine in 1930, and later a watchman at Republic Steel.

Edward Lincoln Callen and Mary Lou Taylor had as many as eleven children, only six were living in 1910; the following are the known children:

- 1.4.1.1 Edward Maple Callen, born April 10th, 1888
- 1.4.1.2 Thomas Uriah Steffey Callen, born February 13th, 1893
- 1.4.1.3 Harry Andrew Callen, born November 24th, 1894
- 1.4.1.4 John Adam Callen, born July 7th, 1897
- 1.4.1.5 William M. Callen, born about 1903
- 1.4.1.6 Maple A. Callen (twin), born about 1906
- 1.4.1.7 Margaret Callen (twin), born about 1906, died before 1910

Mary Lou died on August 16th, 1933, from a stroke. She is buried in the Millerstown Cemetery, her grave marker can not be found.

On February 7th, 1948, Edward wrote his last will and testament, leaving everything to his son, Thomas. Edward died on February 26th, 1948 in Clinton Township, Butler County; his cause of death was a stroke. He is buried in the Millerstown Cemetery, however, his grave marker can not be found.
